

January 2019 Newsletter

Happy New Year! I am confident Georgia will have another exceptional year. We have much to be proud of as we lead the country in numerous categories. As we begin the 155th legislative session, I am committed to continuing our work to ensure life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The Albers family enjoyed a wonderful Christmas with family and friends. I am very proud our son Will continues our family tradition of serving in public safety for a 5th generation. Our younger son Ryan continues to be an exceptional student dual enrolled at Georgia State University and Roswell High School. Kari and I look forward to another great year.

Swearing In & Inauguration

It was a tremendous honor to be sworn into office this morning. The Senate was called into session by our new Lt. Governor and President of the Senate, Geoff Duncan. Surrounded by family, friends and colleagues, I proudly placed my hand on the bible and swore my oath of office.

Later today we will attend the formal inauguration of Governor Brian Kemp and all of our statewide constitutional officers. I am confident he will continue the great work of Governor Deal before him.

School Safety

I spent much of 2018 leading a Senate study committee on school safety. You can find more information about our work here:

This is my #1 priority and I have been working closely with Governor Kemp, Lt. Governor Duncan and the House of Representatives to enact new laws, rules and budget items to assure our students, teachers and staff are safe.

A New Year and Tone

Since the dawn of social media, I have witnessed a concerning lack of professionalism, personal attacks and awful behavior. Cyber-bullying is a major concern and often times originates from adults/parents. It is time to take a step back and be the better person. Remember the old adage, "It is nice to be important but more important to be nice."
