

As Thanksgiving approaches, I am reminded of how much we have to be grateful for here in Georgia. Our state continues to thrive, and the hardworking families who call it home remain the driving force behind our success.

This time of year, also reminds us of what matters most. I hope you have an opportunity to slow down and spend meaningful time with family and friends.

There is much to look forward to as we prepare for another legislative session, and my focus remains on keeping Georgia safe, affordable, and positioned for continued success.

From the Albers family to you and your loved ones we wish you a safe, blessed, and Happy Thanksgiving.

Election Victory & Thank You

Thank you to the people of Senate District 56 for placing your trust in me once again with an overwhelming victory. It is an honor to represent our community in the Georgia Senate, and I am grateful for the opportunity to continue serving you.

2027 Legislative Session

On Monday, January 11, I will join my colleagues under the Gold Dome as the Georgia General Assembly convenes for the 2027 Legislative Session. This year marks the beginning of a new biennium, meaning legislation that did not pass during the previous two-year cycle must be reintroduced for consideration. Committee assignments will also be established for the new term, giving lawmakers a fresh opportunity to build upon our work for the people of Georgia.

As we prepare for January, my focus remains on the kitchen table issues that matter most to Georgia families. Affordability will continue to be a top priority, along with protecting our communities and ensuring taxpayer dollars are spent responsibly. I look forward to working with my colleagues to advance practical solutions that make a meaningful difference in the lives of those we represent.

The months leading up to the session provide valuable opportunities to hear directly from constituents and examine the issues that will shape our legislative agenda. Those conversations will help guide my work when we return to the Capitol in January.

Affordability

Georgia has made significant progress in providing meaningful tax relief to hardworking families, and I remain committed to building on those efforts.

Over the past several years, we have lowered the state income tax rate, provided four rounds of income tax rebates, and suspended the state motor fuel tax on multiple occasions to help ease costs at the pump. Our work has also included property tax relief for homeowners, and we have established a path toward further reductions in Georgia's income tax rate.

I believe that Georgians work hard for their money, and our government has a responsibility to spend taxpayer dollars wisely. By maintaining a balanced budget and protecting our state's AAA bond rating, we can continue providing relief without compromising the essential services our communities depend on.

As we approach the 2027 Legislative Session, I will continue working to make Georgia a place where future generations have every opportunity to succeed.

Welcoming New Legislative Assistant

Alyssa Fernandez graduated cum laude from the University of Georgia, where she earned degrees in Criminal Justice and Sociology. During her time at UGA, she was actively involved in campus organizations, including the Criminal Justice Society, Ethics Club, and College Republicans. She also gained valuable experience through internships with the Fulton County and Cobb County District Attorneys' Offices, as well as on Capitol Hill in Washington, D.C., through the UGA in Washington program. Additionally, she had the opportunity to study abroad at the University of Oxford. Outside of work, Alyssa enjoys cooking and running.
